webconference.com

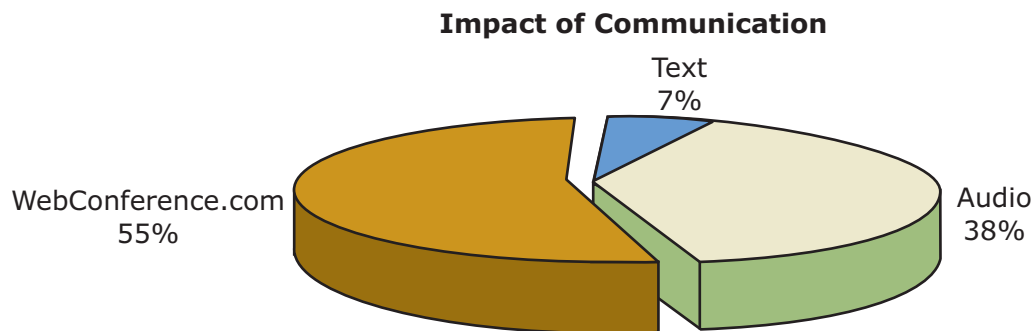

connecting the world

WebConference.com brings you great benefits...

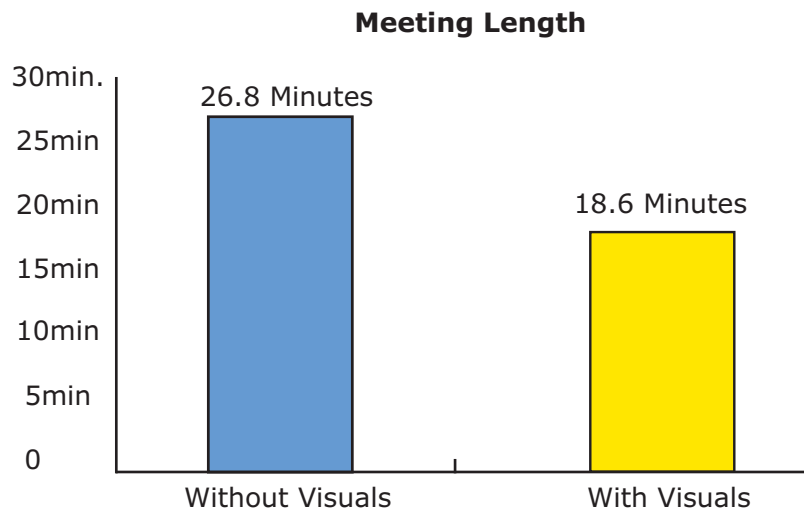

WebConference.com increases the retention of messages. A Wharton Research Center study has shown that the retention rate of verbal only presentations is approximately 10%. However, when you combine visual messages with verbal communication, you increase the retention rate to nearly 50%. A 400% increase! Why not use web conferencing to help you audience remember your message?

WebConference.com is the best way to teach your audience. According to a recent University of California at Los Angeles study, 55% percent of what an audience learns comes directly from the visual messages seen during a presentation- compared to 38% from audio messages. By combining audio and visual presentations, presenters can ensure their objectives are met.

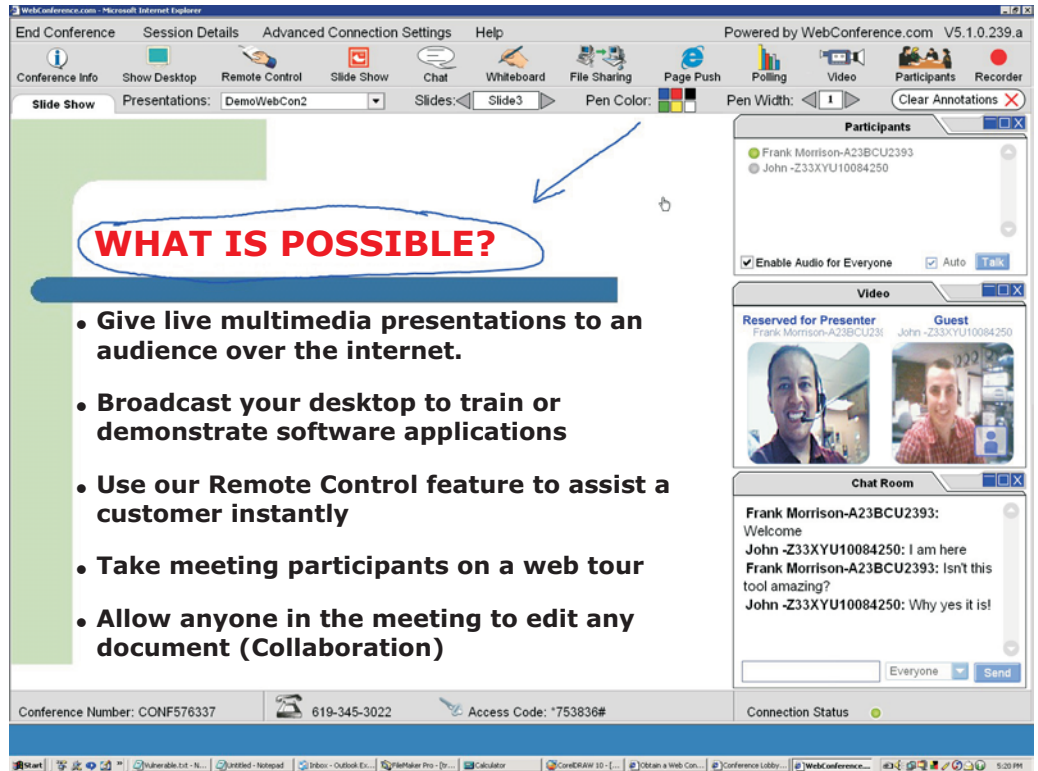

Reduce the length of your meeting. A recent study from the University of Minnesota found that the average length of meetings in which visuals were used were 26.8% shorter (26.7 minutes vs. 18.6 minutes) than meetings in which no visuals were used. Visuals are proven to save corporate executives time and money!
